WHO: JAMES COOPER - TECHNICAL SALES MANAGER

Based out of Nevada, James Cooper is the Technical Sales Manager covering the southeastern United States for the Drilling Products division of CETCO.

James trained as a field engineer with a major oilfield services company. He held several positions at that company focusing on Waterwell, HDD, and Mining. At CETCO, James is responsible for territory management, technical education, new business development, and contractor/distribution support. James’ extensive knowledge of drilling fluids provides a great resource for CETCO customers when it comes to drilling program engineering and solids control. Prior to joining CETCO James spent ten years in the United States Marine Corps, with several combat tours.

James will also be serving a secondary role with a focus on the mining industry.
